Please note that DePaul Residence Halls, while effectively serving summer conference needs, differ from hotel rooms. It would be unrealistic to expect hotel style services such as daily room cleaning/making of beds, wake up calls, room service, etc. It is the responsibility of the Conference Group to ensure that all Conference participants understand the realities of residence hall living vs hotel lodging.

- Residence hall rooms are cleaned prior to Conference Group's arrival and again following their departure. Public areas (hallways, lounges, etc.) are cleaned daily.

- Trashcans and recycling bins are provided in each room. For conferences lasting over a week, arrangements will be made to empty the trashcans during the Conference Group's stay on campus.

- Residence hall common areas may include a computer, but this is not for use of Conference Groups.
• There is an emergency house phone located on each floor of the residence hall. These phones can dial on campus phone numbers such as Public Safety or 911. Land lines are not available in the rooms.

• Internet access is available on DePaul’s campus, including wireless internet access in the sleeping rooms.

• The conference hall will have a front desk that is staffed round the clock. The front desk staff is in place to ensure that every person who is entering the hall is part of the conference program and has a reason to be in the residence hall. The primary function of the front desk operation is to manage access control and promote safety. Secondarily, the front desk operation staff can assist conference participants with any questions they have to make their stay more enjoyable. Front desk staff will ask every person entering to show their conference ID card and swipe the card into the card reader to verify access to the hall.

• Exclusivity of the residence hall building, floor, wing, or suite cannot be guaranteed. The summer conference residence hall hosts many groups over the summer.

• A Conference card and Residence Hall key will be provided for you to access the building and your room. All conference cards and keys must be turned in at check-out. Any items not returned at check-out will be considered lost and the appropriate charges will be applied.

Lost conference cards and keys will be charged at the following costs:
Conference card: $50.00
Residence Hall key: $50.00
